VirtualWirks Joins Eventus Agent-At-Home Solution Offering

Denver based Virtual Program provider becomes latest addition to the Eventus Agent-At-Home Solution

DENVER, CO –(November 30, 2009)-- Eventus Sourcing Group, provider of premier Customer Relationship Management and Business Process Management sourcing solutions, today announced the addition of VirtualWirks to the Eventus Agent-At-Home Solution Offering. Virtualizing work forces requires a lot of critical thinking and VirtualWirks brings an extensive consulting capability to help companies achieve this goal.

VirtualWirks partners with businesses to fulfill their desires for a strong virtual or dispersed work capability. Leveraging expertise and experience in the dispersed work market, VirtualWirks provides a range of professional services to aid firms in building virtual work programs, improving the performance of existing virtual work programs, and providing education and advocacy about virtual work programs. Their partnership approach works side by side with teams toward a successful outcome; and then follows through to ensure the team's success.

With experience in telecommuting, building dispersed work teams, and management of home-based employees, founders Jim Farnsworth and Tadd McAnally bring an extensive professional background and broad general business leadership for large-scale businesses and their customers. In a statement from Jim Farnsworth today, he said, "Helping organizations ignite their virtual, home-based or telecommuting capabilities is what we do, and being a part of the Eventus network will give us the opportunity to provide our services to an even broader client base."

This latest addition to the Eventus family will benefit our clients by allowing Eventus to offer unique virtual workforce solutions to clients and customers.
